

BIOLOGY AND CONSERVATION OF THE SAND SKINK AND THE FLORIDA SCRUB LIZARD

- Catenazzi, A, H.R. Mushinsky & E.D. McCoy. 2008. Plestiodon reynoldsi (sand skink) albinism. COPEIA
- Halstead, B.J., H.R. Mushinsky & E.D. McCoy. 2008. Sympatric Masticophis flagellum and Coluber constrictor select prey at different levels of taxonomy. COPEIA
- McCoy, E.D., Mushinsky, H.R., W.J. Shockley & M.R. Alvarez. 2008. Aging the threatened sand skink with skeletochronology. COPEIA
- McCoy, E.D., P.P. Hartmann & H.R. Mushinsky. 2004. Population biology of the rare Florida scrub lizard in fragmented habitat. HERPETOLOGICA 60: 54-61.
- Mushinsky, H.R., E.D. McCoy, K. Gianopulos, K. Penney & C. Meyer. 2001. Biology of the threatened sand skink on restored scrub habitat and its responses to land management practices. DISNEY WILDLIFE CONSERVATION FUND. 123pp.
- Penney, K.M., K.D. Gianopulos, E.D. McCoy & H.R. Mushinsky. 2001. The visible implant elastomer marking technique in use for small reptiles. HERPETOLOGICAL REVIEW 32: 236-241.
- McCoy, E.D., P.E. Sutton & H.R. Mushinsky. 1999. The role of guesswork in conserving the threatened sand skink. CONSERVATION BIOLOGY 13: 190-194.
- Mushinsky, H.R. & E.D. McCoy. 1999. Studies of the threatened sand skink, Neoseps reynoldsi. DISNEY WILDLIFE CONSERVATION FUND. 130pp.
- Sutton, P.E., H.R. Mushinsky & E.D. McCoy. 1999. Comparing the use of pitfall drift fences and cover boards for studying the threatened sand skink. HERPETOLOGICAL REVIEW 30: 149-151.