John Duns Scotus: Ethical Writings

Proposed table of contents

Introduction: Scotus’s Life and Works

1. Divine Love, Justice, and Mercy

Ordinatio 3, d. 32, q. un.: “Does God love all things equally through charity?”
Ordinatio 4, d. 46, qq. 1-4: “Is there justice in God?” “Is there mercy in God?” “Are mercy and justice distinct in God?” “Do justice and mercy concur on God’s part in his punishment of the wicked?”

2. Will and Intellect

Ordinatio prologue, part 5, qq. 1-2: “Is theology a practical or a speculative science?” “Is a science called practical per se because it extends to praxis as its end?” (in part)
Ordinatio 1, d. 1, part 2, q. 2: “Does the will necessarily enjoy an end when it is apprehended by the intellect?”
Ordinatio 1, d. 34, q. un.: “Are there in God eternal relations to all knowables as quidditatively cognized?”
Ordinatio 1, d. 38, q. un.: “Is God’s knowledge with respect to creatable things practical?”

3. Freedom and Contingency

Ordinatio 1, d. 8, part 2, q. un.: “Is God alone immutable?” (in part)
Reportatio 1A, dd. 39-40, qq. 1-3: “Does God immutably foreknow the outcome of future contingent events?” “Does God necessarily foreknow the outcome of future contingent events?” “Is it possible for a predestinate person to be damned?”
Ordinatio 1, d. 44, q. un.: “Can God make things otherwise than as he has ordained them to be made?”
Ordinatio 4, d. 49, qq. 9-10: “Do all human beings will happiness supremely and necessarily?” “Is everything that is desired, desired on account of happiness?”
Questions on Aristotle's Metaphysics 9, q. 15: “Is the distinction that Aristotle drew between rational and irrational powers appropriate?”

4. The Nature of Good and Evil

Ordinatio 1, d. 17, part 1, qq. 1-2: “Is it necessary to posit created charity that inheres formally in a nature capable of being made blessed?” “Is it necessary to posit a habit as an active principle with respect to an act?” (in part)
Ordinatio 1, d. 48, q. un.: “Is a created will good whenever it is in conformity with the uncreated will?”
Ordinatio 2, d. 7, q. un.: “Does an evil angel necessarily will in an evil way?”
Ordinatio 2, dd. 34-37, qqs. 1-4: “Can sin be from good as from a cause?” “Is sin per se a corruption of good?” “Is sin a punishment for sin?” “Can sin be from God?”

Ordinatio 2, d. 40, q. un.: “Is every act good in virtue of its end?”

Ordinatio 2, d. 41, q. un.: “Can any act of ours be indifferent?”

Quodlibetal Questions q. 18: “Does an exterior act add any goodness or badness to the interior act?” (in part)

5. Moral Motivation and the Genesis of Moral Action

Ordinatio 2, d. 6, q. 2: “Was the angel’s first sin formally pride?”

Ordinatio 2, d. 39, qqs. 1-2: “Is synderesis in the will?” “Is conscience in the will?”

Ordinatio 2, d. 43, q. un.: “Can a created will sin for the sake of evil?”

Ordinatio 3, d. 17, q. un.: “Were there two wills in Christ?”

6. Sin

Ordinatio 2, d. 44, q. un.: “Is the power for sinning from God?”

Ordinatio 3, d. 38, q. un.: “Is every lie a sin?”

Ordinatio 3, d. 39, q. un.: “Is every act of perjury a sin?”

7. Charity

Ordinatio 3, d. 27, q. un.: “Is there any theological virtue that inclines one to love God above all?”

Ordinatio 3, d. 28, q. un.: “Ought one to love one’s neighbor by the same habit by which one loves God?”

Ordinatio 3, d. 29, q. un.: “Is each person required to love him- or herself the most, after God?”

Ordinatio 3, d. 30, q. un.: “Must we love our enemies through charity?”

8. Virtue

Ordinatio 3, d. 33, q. un.: “Are the moral virtues in the will as in a subject?”

Ordinatio 3, d. 34, q. un.: “Are the virtues, gifts, beatitudes, and fruits the same habits?”

Ordinatio 3, d. 36, q. un.: “Are the moral virtues connected?”

9. Natural Law

Ordinatio 3, d. 37, q. un.: “Do all the precepts of the Decalogue belong to the law of nature?”

Ordinatio 4, d. 15, q. 2: “What is the source of private property?” (in part)

Ordinatio 4, d. 17, q. un.: “By what precept are Christians obliged to confess their sins to a priest?” (in part)

Ordinatio 4, d. 21, q. 2: “Is a confessor bound in every case not to reveal a sin revealed to him in confession?” (in part)

Ordinatio 4, d. 33, q. 1, q. 3: “Was plural marriage ever licit?” “Was it licit under the Law of Moses for a man to divorce his wife?” (in part)

Ordinatio 4, d. 36, q. 1: “Is slavery an impediment to marriage?”